

Mrs. Pauline Weinstein
Honorary Member of the MI Corps 2014

Pauline Moeller's Army journey began on 16 June 1961 when she married, then Captain, Sidney T. Weinstein. From that day on, their life together was in constant motion as they moved more than 18 times over the span of 27 years.

Pauline adapted to each duty station with ease. She reached out to other Army families and truly embraced her community. Her loving and open personality gave her a knack for making any house, apartment or space a home. The doors to these homes were always open not only to her family, but also to the entire Army community.

Her 27 years as an Army spouse were filled with many selfless accomplishments. During these years, she was a strong mentor to many younger spouses. Pauline helped countless families with their everyday lives. She did everything from helping with childcare to even helping families clear quarters. The number of organizations, including spouses groups, the thrift shop and Army Community Services, that benefited from her volunteerism are plentiful.

Each time her husband was in command; Pauline was an integral part of the "command team". She, like her husband, was a leader.

Over her time as an Army spouse, Pauline positively impacted so many lives, and that impact still runs strong today. The members of the Army community who consider Pauline a friend or part of their family are too numerous to count.
